Adequate explanations and basic pre-contractual information for contracts negotiated away from business premises and distance contracts on the rendering of financial services

(Version 1.0, Date: 19.06.2026)

Adequate explanations

1. Explanations of Main Features

The N26 Mastercard is a debit card issued either physically or virtually for storage on a mobile device and is issued in the name of the cardholder. The card can be used by the cardholder domestically and, as an additional service, abroad at participating merchants within the VISA or Mastercard card network. Subject to technical feasibility, the cardholder is entitled, as an additional service, to withdraw cash using the card at VISA or Mastercard acceptance points and at any ATM worldwide bearing the VISA or Mastercard logo, within the agreed limits and up to the amount of their available balance.

By using the card, the cardholder grants consent (authorization) for the execution of a payment order. Once authorized, the cardholder can no longer revoke the payment order. Transactions are debited from the available balance of the linked N26 account or the designated Space.

2. Special Consequences for the Consumer

The cardholder is obliged to maintain the strictest confidentiality of the PIN code and to ensure that the physical or virtual card is kept secure. If an unauthorized card transaction occurs as a result of loss, theft, other misappropriation, or other misuse of the card, the account holder shall be liable for damages incurred up to the receipt of the blocking notification up to a maximum of EUR 50, regardless of whether the cardholder is at fault for the loss, theft, other misappropriation, or other misuse.

Topping up the card and certain card features may be subject to fees, as specified in the "List of Prices and Services". Foreign currency transactions are converted into EUR at the respective daily exchange rate of Mastercard. For Business cards, unauthorized private use may lead to the blocking or conversion of the card.

The card contract is concluded for an indefinite period. The cardholder may terminate the contract at any time by returning or deleting the deactivated card, while N26 Bank SE may terminate it with a notice period of two months.

3. Consequences of missed or late payment

Transactions are directly debited from the available credit balance. Should the available funds on the linked account or Space be insufficient (and the automatic fund transfer mechanism fails or is inactive), the payment order will be declined. All applicable fees and costs are collected regardless of your account balance. Should these charges result in a negative balance, the account will enter a technical overdraft where interest accrues at the rate specified in the price list.

11. Applicable Law/Place of Jurisdiction

German law is applicable for the business relationship between you and N26. N26 is also subject to the law of the Federal Republic of Germany for the pre-contractual relation. In the case of agreements, which are not concluded with consumers ("Verbraucher") for the purposes of Paragraph 13 German Civil Code (BGB), the Regional Court Munich I [Landgericht München I] is agreed to be the sole place of jurisdiction.

12. Information and contract language/contract text

The governing language for this contractual relationship and communication between you and N26 during the term of the contract is German. The customer has the right to request the transmission of these contract terms in text form at any time during the term of the contract. As an additional service for the customer, N26 provides the legal documents to the customer in English, but these are not legally binding. Only the German documents apply.

13. Performance reservation

There is no reservation of performance unless this is expressly agreed upon.

14. Requirements for using the service

An active N26 bank account loaded with sufficient funds is required. N26 Business Mastercard-debit cards may only be applied for and used by self-employed persons exclusively for business expenses.
